

Weekly Wonder

One big question with no right answer. Put it up, give the room a minute of quiet, then see where the discussion goes. It gets students thinking for themselves, and used to hearing a view they do not share without needing to win. This is Volume One.

What you need

Page	What it is	How many
Slides	How it works, then the five questions, one to a slide (a separate download)	Nothing to print, and no answer to prepare

How it works

Step	What happens
1	Pick any of the five slides and put it up. No introduction is needed.
2	Give it a minute of quiet before anyone speaks. The best answers are rarely the fastest ones.
3	Open it up. There is no correct answer, so every answer is worth hearing, and you do not need to land on a conclusion before the bell.

Worth knowing

- It takes as long as you want it to: two minutes, or the whole of form time.
- Once a week works best, so each question feels like a bit of an event.
